Re: RAA §3.18 — NiceNIC International Group Co., Limited (IANA ID 3765)

Date: 2026-08-05 | Registrar abuse contacts used: abuse@nicenic.net, nicenic@139.com, support@nicenic.net

This submission places before ICANN Contractual Compliance a documented record of systematic, deliberate regulatory failure by NiceNIC International Group Co., Limited (IANA ID 3765) — a registrar that has operated as a knowing supplier of domain infrastructure to criminal operators engaged in cryptocurrency fraud, wallet draining, brand impersonation, darknet drug marketplace distribution, and large-scale financial phishing, across every country where the internet is accessible.

In 2026, our threat intelligence systems detected and reported to NiceNIC a total of 13,104 unique malicious domains — each notification sent directly to the registrar's published abuse contacts (abuse@nicenic.net, nicenic@139.com, support@nicenic.net), each accompanied by forensic evidence. As of the date of this submission, 4,430 of these domains remain fully operational with active DNS resolution confirmed today. The median time domains have remained active after our first report is 158 days. The maximum is 215 days. The registrar provided no substantive response to any of our 13,163 submitted notifications.

We reported these domains to NiceNIC an average of 44 hours after first detection — and an average of 114 days before VirusTotal's own security vendors first flagged the same domains. In 1,184 out of 1,188 verified cases, our report preceded any major antivirus detection. The registrar received the earliest possible warning, before the domains had accumulated broad security intelligence coverage. Had NiceNIC acted on our reports at the time of submission, the harm caused by these domains would have been prevented. Instead, our data shows that 88% of reported domains were still active 7 days after our report, 69% after 30 days, and 44% after 90 days. The average domain remained operational and accessible to victims for 83 days after our report.

The 4,430 currently active domains in this submission do not represent the full picture. Of the 13,104 domains we reported, the majority that are no longer DNS-active did not die because NiceNIC acted. They became unreachable because independent infrastructure — Cloudflare's network-level abuse detection, MetaMask and SEAL phishing blocklists, or antivirus vendor blacklists — intervened where the registrar refused to. In every such case, the domain registration remained valid. The registrant remained an active NiceNIC customer. DNS control was never removed. A single configuration change is sufficient to resume operations under the same registration. A domain blocked at the browser or network layer while its registration is untouched has not been mitigated. It has been bypassed.

We note a specific and technically significant evasion pattern involving Netcraft. NiceNIC publicly claims to cooperate with Netcraft's anti-abuse program. Our data shows multiple domains from this dataset carrying a "Resolved" status in Netcraft's system while remaining fully operational. The mechanism is as follows: NiceNIC performs a temporary suspension of the domain — sufficient duration for Netcraft's automated scanner to confirm inactivity and close the report as "Resolved" — after which the domain returns to full operation. This is not compliance. It is manufactured evidence of compliance. More importantly, it demonstrates beyond any doubt that NiceNIC possesses the technical capability and operational process to suspend a domain immediately upon instruction. The infrastructure exists. The decision to apply it selectively — for Netcraft verification scans, not for abuse reports from threat intelligence organizations — is deliberate. NiceNIC is not incapable of acting on abuse reports. It chooses not to.

A further and increasingly prevalent evasion tactic requires attention. A significant proportion of domains that appear inactive to automated scanners are not genuinely offline. They employ content cloaking: returning blank, error, or "suspended" pages to requests that do not match a target profile — specific geographic region, browser fingerprint, referrer chain, or advertising click parameter — while serving full phishing or fraud content to users who arrive through the intended attack vector. This is why authoritative security vendor detections exist on domains that appear unresponsive to direct probing. The malicious content was observed and recorded. The domain's subsequent apparent inactivity is evasion, not remediation. A registrar that checks a domain's HTTP response from a fixed server IP and finds nothing is not conducting due diligence. It is conducting a check that the domain's operator has specifically engineered it to pass.

ICANN's own Advisory on Compliance with DNS Abuse Obligations (5 February 2024, effective 5 April 2024) states: "When Registrar has actionable evidence that a Registered Name sponsored by Registrar is being used for DNS Abuse, Registrar must promptly take the appropriate mitigation action(s) that are reasonably necessary to stop, or otherwise disrupt, the Registered Name from being used for DNS Abuse." The same Advisory requires "ongoing attentiveness to allegations of sponsored names being used for DNS Abuse... commensurate with the potential harm that DNS Abuse causes victims." It further specifies that "in instances where a registrar receives an abuse report that does not contain all necessary information... the registrar must investigate." Our reports contained urlscan.io forensic links, VirusTotal report links, screenshots, and blocklist citations. They required no supplementation. The registrar's obligation to investigate and act was unambiguous. For clear phishing on a newly registered domain — which describes the overwhelming majority of our 13,104 cases — the Advisory's illustrative timeline is 2 business days. Our median documented non-response is 158 days.

We must address what "appropriate mitigation" requires under RAA §3.18, and what it does not permit. The registrar is not authorized to substitute its own technical assessment for the findings of established security authorities. VirusTotal, Spamhaus, Netcraft, MetaMask, SEAL, and the other sources represented in this evidence package are the competent authorities on malicious classification. Their determinations are not advisory suggestions subject to the registrar's independent review. They are the evidence basis that triggers the registrar's obligation to act. A registrar's HTTP check from a single server IP is not a competing technical opinion. It is an uninformed observation conducted under conditions the fraudulent operator has specifically arranged.

NiceNIC has on occasion responded to ICANN inquiries with claims of resolving abuse reports within 23 hours. This claim is false. The domains NiceNIC suspends are domains that were already unreachable — already blocked at the infrastructure level, already dead from abandoned hosting — before NiceNIC acted. Suspending a domain that has been functionally offline for weeks and reporting it as a resolved abuse case is a misrepresentation of compliance activity. It is a mechanism for producing a paper record of responsiveness while providing zero protection to any victim. The automated email reply requesting screenshots from reporters who have already provided urlscan.io forensic links, VirusTotal reports, and blocklist citations is not a compliance process. It is a delay mechanism designed to absorb incoming reports without generating any obligation to act.

Waiting for a domain registration to expire is not mitigation. A registration that is not cancelled remains under the registrant's full administrative control for its entire term. An operator with 200 to 1,000 domains registered on a single NiceNIC account — which our data documents — can resume operations on any of them instantly. The registrar's obligation is to act on the registration itself, not to wait for external systems to render it unreachable.

We note for ICANN's attention that 89% of the domains in this dataset — 11,581 of 13,104 — were configured on Cloudflare's free tier. Cloudflare's free tier imposes no customer identity verification and no abuse accountability. It is used by fraudulent operators precisely because it provides CDN performance at zero cost and zero scrutiny. When these domains eventually become unreachable, it is predominantly because Cloudflare's automated systems intervened. We note that Cloudflare is a network infrastructure provider and should not be the primary de facto processor of domain abuse reports that the sponsoring registrar has refused to handle.

Registrars including Hostinger and Namecheap routinely identify and terminate at the account level operators engaged in systematic phishing — proactively, without requiring external reports, removing the registrant's ability to register further domains. NiceNIC has not taken account-level action against a single operator in our documented dataset, despite evidence of individual accounts controlling hundreds to thousands of malicious domains.

An independent review of NiceNIC's active domain portfolio reveals no identifiable legitimate business. The registrar's customer base, as observed through our monitoring, consists of cryptocurrency phishing, wallet drainers, darknet drug marketplace distribution infrastructure (including 376 confirmed mirror domains for a major Russian-language narcotics marketplace), illegal gambling operations, fake pharmaceutical storefronts, and brand impersonation campaigns targeting financial platforms in every major market. We have identified no segment of NiceNIC's active portfolio that represents lawful commercial activity. The conclusion that this registrar's revenue model is structurally dependent on criminal registrants is not an inference. It is what the evidence shows.

We are not a victim of these domains. We do not represent any specific victim. We are a threat intelligence organization transmitting documented evidence to the competent regulatory authority. Our obligation is to present the evidence accurately and completely. We have done so. The obligation to act belongs to you.

If ICANN Contractual Compliance determines that direct enforcement falls outside its current authority for any portion of this matter, we request that you identify the specific mechanism or body to which this evidence should be directed, so that we may proceed without delay.

Should these domains remain active 72 hours from receipt of this submission, we will submit individual complaint filings for each domain through your standard form and will continue expanding the evidence base.

This correspondence is not confidential. All materials submitted — including any response received and, equally, the absence of any response — will be published in full under our transparency policy and made permanently available for verification. These materials may be used freely for any lawful purpose, with the explicit exception of citizens of the Russian Federation, the Republic of Belarus, and other OFAC-sanctioned jurisdictions, who are strictly and unconditionally prohibited from accessing or using them.

Respectfully,

Key Evidence: Selective Compliance & Domain Lifetime After Report

Netcraft "Resolved" Pattern — Manufactured Compliance

NiceNIC briefly suspends domains specifically when Netcraft's verification scanner checks — generating a "Resolved" status — then restores the domain. This proves technical capability exists. The choice not to apply it to our reports is deliberate.

▲ Documented pattern: Netcraft submits report → NiceNIC suspends domain → Netcraft scanner sees inactive → marks "Resolved" → NiceNIC restores domain → domain continues operating. Meanwhile: our 13,104 reports → zero suspensions.

clientHold Timeline: Domains NiceNIC Did Suspend

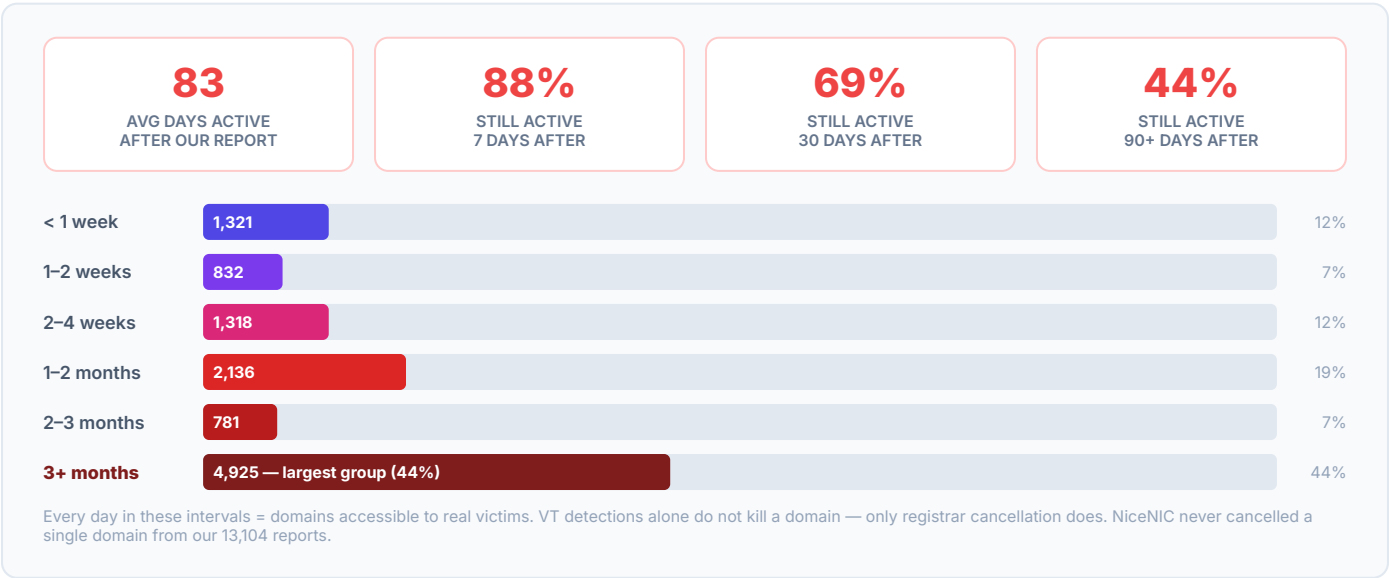

In our RDAP sample, domains with clientHold status were already dead before hold was set. Registration expires in 2027 — holds were deliberate actions, not auto-expiry. But they only happened after domains died from third-party intervention, not after our reports.

DOMAIN	WE REPORTED	CLIENTHOLD SET	GAP	EXPIRES	STATUS
app-dexscreener.com	2026-02-23	2026-02-27	4 days	2027-02-19	dead before hold gaidax.com	2026-01-31	2026-03-05	33 days	2027-01-15	dead before hold tik21hub.net	2026-04-11	2026-04-14	3 days	2027-03-11	dead before hold

Of 500 alive domains checked via RDAP: 497 have status "active" — zero clientHold. Of dead domains sampled: ~45% have clientHold — all applied after third-party systems killed the site.

Domain Lifetime After Our First Report (n=11,313)
